MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

MAY 2015

Dear Pace Graduates, Parents, Families, and Friends,

There are days we look forward to—months and even years—in advance. Today is one of those days. Welcome to your 2015 Pace University Commencement.

There is nothing like the warmth, pride, and sense of accomplishment that fills a room on Commencement day. For our graduates, today is the culmination of your Pace University undergraduate or graduate experience. You arrived focused, driven, and determined. You worked hard and took advantage of the opportunities that Pace provided. Today you depart as Pace alumni. You are prepared to realize your dreams and you deserve all the praise, admiration, and accolades that you receive today. Congratulations!

As you move on to the next phase of your life, remember what you have learned here, the people you met here, and the experiences you shared here. Also remember that you are now part of a vast network of past, present, and future Pace alumni. The University and the Pace Network are deeply intertwined. Each has been shaped by and shapes the other. Please celebrate your place in the Pace Network by staying engaged with your professors and fellow students, supporting future students as you were once supported, and helping to ensure that Pace remains a university where students come to achieve their dreams.

To our Commencement guests, I offer my deepest thanks for your past and future contributions to Pace. To the Class of 2015, my very best wishes go with you all.

Sincerely yours,

HONORARY DEGREE CITATION

DOCTOR OF LAWS

PREET BHARARA

Preet Bharara—United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York—has a commitment to justice that inspires us all. Trained as a lawyer, he received an AB in Government from Harvard College in 1990, magna cum laude, and a JD from Columbia Law School in 1993, where he was a member of the Columbia Law Review. Before his appointment as United States Attorney, Mr. Bharara had a distinguished career as an Assistant US Attorney in the Southern District, and then as Chief Counsel and Staff Director of the US Senate Judiciary Committee’s Subcommittee on Administrative Oversight and the Courts.

As an Assistant US Attorney, Mr. Bharara prosecuted cases involving organized crime, racketeering, securities fraud, money laundering, narcotics trafficking, and other crimes.

During his tenure with the Senate Judiciary Committee, he helped lead the Committee’s investigation into the firing of United States Attorneys, seeking to protect the administration of justice from undue political influence.

President Barack Obama nominated Mr. Bharara to become the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York on May 15, 2009, and he was unanimously confirmed by the United States Senate on August 7, 2009.

Since his appointment as United States Attorney, Mr. Bharara has advocated for “the build[ing] of an ethical culture that becomes self-sustaining” in the financial sector and in government. He has backed these powerful words with equally inspiring and courageous actions. Under his leadership, the US Attorney’s Office for the Southern District of New York has acted energetically to promote institutional accountability in financial institutions. These decisions impact not just New Yorkers, but all Americans and even those beyond America’s borders. He has been unafraid to use federal statutory authority to prosecute government fraud without regard to political affiliation. He has also taken a strong stand against terrorists and arms traffickers, noting that as national security threats come from all corners of the globe, “the long arm of the law has to get even longer.” His tenure as US Attorney has given force to the precept that all stand equally before the law and that justice does not favor the wealthy or powerful.

For his many professional accomplishments, his dedication to the legal profession and administration of justice, his inspiring example to others both within and outside the legal profession, Pace University is honored to confer upon Preet Bharara the degree of Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa, with all the rights and privileges pertaining thereunto.

HONORARY DEGREE CITATION

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

BARRY KLARBERG

Barry Klarberg excels in worlds where artists are only as successful as their last project and Hall of Fame athletes fail as often as they succeed. These young professionals, blessed with incomparable gifts of song, entertainment, and athletic ability, but often without the educational experience to manage their opportunities and success, depend on him to turn their God-given talents into profitable and trustworthy brands.

It's no wonder that Mr. Klarberg says the education in communication skills he received from Pace University is as important as the bachelor of business administration or the master's degree in taxation the University bestowed upon him. He stands above others in his profession by connecting with his clients on a personal level and demonstrating his high professional standards and even higher ethical and principled approach to their careers. His sage financial tutelage and caring, empathetic approach to their lives helps ensure their futures. In the process, he has become one of the most trusted and well-respected wealth management experts in the United States.

He was accepted to Pace at an age when many of his peers were still freshmen in high school. Mr. Klarberg was 16 years old when he took his first college class. He immediately embraced the University's historic mission of Opportunitas and applied it to his studies and his career. After graduating with his BBA in 1981 he joined Deloitte. Over the next 11 years, he became the firm's national director of sports and entertainment. During that period, Mr. Klarberg returned to Pace and earned an MS in Taxation. He also shared his knowledge and professional expertise with other Pace students as an adjunct professor of taxation. He would later describe his teaching experience as "one of the most gratifying of my life."

Mr. Klarberg formed KRT Business Management and spent two years as senior managing director of Guggenheim Partners before founding Monarch Business and Wealth Management. At Monarch, his roster of clients reads like a "who's who" of the sports and entertainment worlds. Those relying on his trusted counsel include a multiple Grammy Award-winning artist, actor, and businessman; an Academy Award-winning actor; a Golden Globe-winning and Emmy Award-nominated television and movie star; a National Hockey League Hall-of-Famer; a hip-hop business magnate and fashion designer; and countless other artists, professional athletes, and high-net-worth individuals. He is also part-owner of three American professional sports franchises—including the New York Yankees.

His long-standing support for the National Meningitis Association is just one example of his desire to positively impact people in a very personal and profound way. Mr. Klarberg recently returned to Pace to help future generations of business people ensure their own futures. As an Executive in Residence and the Lubin School of Business' first Lecturer in Residence, he helped students launch fulfilling and successful careers in the industries where he has helped so many others—arts and entertainment management, sports marketing, and taxation.

For his contributions to education, business, and society, Pace University proudly confers upon Barry Klarberg the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, Honoris Causa.

HONORARY DEGREE CITATION

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

CHARLES PHILLIPS

Infor CEO Charles Phillips is a marine, lawyer, ex-Morgan Stanley Wall Street MBA, computer programmer, former President of Oracle, and a self-professed “technology geek.” He carries two different cell phones that run on two different networks, takes the subway to work most days, answers his own e-mail, encourages employees to instant message him, streams 45,000 songs from his private cloud music server, and loves art, fashion, and design. All these elements of Mr. Phillips’ persona are on display as he creates an innovative organization that is changing the way people work.

Mr. Phillips runs the world’s third largest provider of software applications, but he calls the company “the world’s largest startup.” As CEO of Infor since 2010, he has led the organization on an impressive voyage of growth and creativity. Four months after he started, he completed a $2 billion acquisition—the first of many he would make. Infor is the result of more than 60 acquisitions, and Mr. Phillips’ deft touch has made the whole greater than the sum of its parts.

His success begins with a corporate culture of camaraderie, innovation, and customer focus. His first rule, he said, was “do not hire anyone who’s not brilliant at what they do.” His second rule was just as important as his first: “Don’t hire anyone you can’t have dinner with.” He also focused on excellent design and empowered his people to create intuitive, responsive, and elegant user experiences. To facilitate this process, he created an internal creative agency and hired writers, designers, developers, and filmmakers, rather than enterprise software developers. “We wanted to make the software beautiful and inject a social platform into the mix,” he explains. He even named the conference rooms in the office after jazz greats, such as Duke Ellington and Count Basie, to reflect the collective improvisational nature he wants to permeate the organization.

Today, Infor is a $2.8 billion company offering its 73,000 customers the benefits of a global organization with local roots. Almost 13,000 employees work in more than 150 offices in 40 different countries to meet their customers’ needs. These customers include 19 of the top 20 aerospace companies, 84 of the top 100 automakers, the top 10 pharmaceutical companies, 26 out of the top 35 largest global retailers, 31 out of the top 50 industrial distributors, and more than 7,000 industrial machinery manufacturers. The firm is also focused on developing future business professionals. The Infor Education Alliance provides talented students and professionals with the software packages, training, hands-on learning experiences, and groundbreaking technology they’ll need to become leaders in their industries.

Mr. Phillips has been recognized countless times for his business success as well as his philanthropic efforts. His Phillips Charitable Organization offers support and encouragement to single parents, wounded veterans, and students working towards engineering science, technology, and mathematics degrees. He is also a member of many corporate and nonprofit boards, and served on US President Barack Obama’s Council on Jobs and Competitiveness. He earned a BS in Computer Science from the United States Air Force Academy and a JD from New York Law School.

For his contributions to business and society, Pace University proudly confers upon Charles Phillips the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, Honoris Causa.

HONORARY DEGREE CITATION

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

GENERAL CHARLES C. KRULAK

Commandant of the US Marine Corps, a former Chairman and CEO of MBNA Europe Bank Ltd, and President of Birmingham-Southern College. While leadership is not conferred through titles, there can be no doubt that General Charles C. Krulak is a leader's leader and a man deeply committed to service.

In 2011, a Lieutenant Colonel in the Marine Corps working towards a Master of Strategic Studies degree at the US Army War College submitted a strategic research project entitled, "Why General Krulak is the Marine Corps' Greatest Strategic Leader." The Lieutenant Colonel wrote, "General Krulak successfully guided the Marine Corps into the 21st century through his unparalleled vision for the future, his highly effective communication abilities, and a political and social savvy." He added, "Krulak's unique ability to embrace innovation and establish an experimental environment throughout the Marine Corps set the tone for other leaders in the Marine Corps to follow suit."

General Krulak's leadership philosophy is simple. Leadership starts with an abundance of selflessness. "You can't care who gets the credit," he says. Great moral courage is the second arrow in the General's leadership quiver. He defines moral courage as the willingness to take action when something is wrong without regard for the personal consequences. Complete integrity is the General's third and final leadership component. "Integrity is the only thing we really own," he says. "Only we can give it away and once we do, we can't get it back."

The General developed his leadership skills during a 35-year career in the US Marine Corps, ending as Commandant and member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. During his military service his nation awarded him countless decorations including the Defense Distinguished Service Medal, the Silver Star Medal, three Bronze Star medals with Combat "V," two Purple Heart medals, and the Meritorious Service Medal.

General Krulak's subsequent role as Chief Executive Officer of MBNA Europe proved his leadership principles apply equally to the business world. And, in 2011, when he became President of a small but fine liberal arts college, Birmingham-Southern in Alabama, he did so knowing full well the financial challenges the college faced. His leadership philosophy and ability to inspire ordinary people to do extraordinary things revitalized the college. Retiring this June, General Krulak leaves his successor a stable, growing institution.

For his service to his country, and his contributions to education, business, and society, Pace University proudly confers upon General Charles C. Krulak the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, Honoris Causa.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The history of academic dress dates back to the early days of the oldest universities. A statute of 1321 required all “Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors” of the University of Coimbra to wear gowns. In England, during the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges forbade “excess in apparel” and prescribed the wearing of a long gown. It is still a question whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. Gowns may have been worn for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars, while hoods seem to have served to cover the tonsured head until replaced by the skull cap. In time, the skull cap was replaced by the mortarboard caps that are used widely today.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Bureau of Academic Costume was formed to establish a suitable code of academic dress for the colleges and universities of the United States. The academic costume code recognizes three types of gowns, usually black. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves. The gown for the master’s degree has long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. A doctor’s gown is faced with velvet, and has full, round, open sleeves bearing three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing and bars may either be black or the color distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. The hood is made of a material identical to the gown and is lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. When the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. For Pace University, the official colors found in the hood are blue and gold. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hood and indicates the subject to which the degree pertains.

For all academic purposes, the colors associated with the various subjects at Pace University are as follows:

Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Commerce, Accountancy, Business	Drab
Education	Light Blue
Fine Arts	Brown
Health Professions, Nursing	Apricot
Health Professions, Physician Assistant	Gold
Journalism, Publishing	Crimson
Law	Purple
Psychology	Royal Blue
Public Administration	Peacock Blue
Science	Golden Yellow

HONOR SOCIETIES

Pace University strives to foster intellectual growth, ethical maturity, civic responsibility, and professionalism in specific disciplines. Honor societies at Pace University play a vital role in advancing these goals. All national and international honor societies recognize academic excellence, promote scholarship, and enrich the undergraduate educational experience. Members benefit from fellowship between students, faculty, and active professionals. Honor societies are keys that open doors to graduate school, career opportunities, and professional development. Membership in an honor society bestows honor, recognition, and lifetime distinction.

Students who are members in national and international honor societies are distinguished by wearing a colored cord around their neck. The colors and the honor society they represent are as follows:

Alpha Chi—National College Honor Scholarship Society

IN RECOGNITION OF PACE UNIVERSITY STUDENT VETERANS

Pace University remains committed to providing high quality and affordable education to our veteran students who have served our nation with honor and distinction. We feel privileged to have you as members of the Pace Community, now and in the future. We know that your contributions have enriched our academic and student life beyond measure. We recognize your service and sacrifice at this time and wish you the very best in your future personal and career endeavors.

Our graduating veteran students are distinguished by their red, white, and blue honor cords that they are proudly wearing.

GRADUATION PLEDGE OF SOCIAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL RESPONSIBILITY

“I pledge to explore and take into account the social and environmental consequences of the choices I make in my daily life as well as in any job I consider. I will try to improve these aspects at home and with any organization for which I work.”

The Class of 2015 is the seventh class at Pace University to participate in the Graduation Pledge of Social and Environmental Responsibility. An initiative first instituted at Pace in 2009, individuals wearing a green ribbon have voluntarily pledged to make a commitment to be socially and environmentally aware of the decisions and choices they make. Students who have pledged take part in a global effort to actively pursue solutions for a sustainable world—meeting the needs of today without compromising the needs of the future.

The Graduation Pledge of Social and Environmental Responsibility began in 1987 at Humboldt State University (HSU) in Arcata, California, by a small group of students and community members, ultimately leading to the formation of the Graduation Pledge Alliance. The Graduation Pledge Alliance is currently coordinated by the Bentley University Alliance for Ethics and Social Responsibility in Waltham, Massachusetts. Since its inception, more than 300 colleges and universities around the world have instituted the pledge at some level.

TRADITIONAL SYMBOLS

In addition to the regalia and finery customarily worn by University faculty and officers, formal academic ceremonies often include colorful signs and symbols representing the history and traditions of university life as well as specific aspects of the university being celebrated.

FLAGS

At Pace University ceremonies, in addition to the flags of the United States, the state of New York, and of the University, the president is represented by a swallow-tail flag of a blue field with a gold border bearing the University seal in pale blue, ringed by the inscription “Office of the President.”

Each school/college within the University (College of Health Professions, Seidenberg School of Computer Science and Information Systems, the School of Education, Dyson College of Arts and Sciences, Lubin School of Business, and the School of Law) is signified by a blue and gold banner with the school/college name and University logo.

MACES

The mace was developed as an armor-crushing weapon in the 13th century. Battle axes and maces were formidable chivalric tools of combat and warfare. They became symbols of authority, commanding attention and respect for the bearer, and were associated with those responsible for protecting the king’s person. By the 16th century, maces were ornately designed and decorated with jewels and precious metals, often crafted with elegant architectural motifs.

At Pace University, the dean for students carries two maces. One is a replica of a Gothic battle mace with a head formed by five flanges, topped by a fluted conical finial. The rondel consists of a rusticated wood shaft attached to a metal cylindrical base, all of which is brass plated and inscribed with the words Pace University. The mace was introduced in 1968 at the first commencement held on the Westchester Campus. The second mace was first used in 1927 at commencement exercises of Good Counsel College, which became the College of White Plains and which was consolidated in 1975 with Pace University. The brass and wood mace is topped by a sphere and a formée cross with a garnet at its center. The rondel, consisting of two brass sections separated by a ribbed wooden grip, has a sphere at its base, which bears the inscription “Pace University.”

University marshals carry batons that represent the schools/colleges of the University. The University seal is mounted on each end of the baton, which is made of American walnut. The name of each person who has served as dean of the school/college is engraved on a brass plate affixed to the school/college baton.

VERGE

The verge, an elongated mace or staff carried by the grand marshal, is made of Honduran rosewood. It is topped by a replica of a bronze-coated copper globe made in 1510, which is the earliest existing representation depicting the discoveries of Christopher Columbus in the Western Hemisphere. Beneath the globe, each Pace campus is represented by ribbons of the campus color: green for New York City, blue for Westchester, and red for White Plains. The upper section of the shaft is inlaid with rare woods representing the four reaches of the world: ebony, teak, olive, and oak.

THE CENTENNIAL MEDALLION (RETIRED)

(The medallion was struck in commemoration of the University’s Centennial in 2006.) Both the Chairman of the Board of Trustees and the University President wore the Centennial Medallion, which is made of bronze and layered with silver plate. The face of the medallion is the Pace University seal and the reverse bears the engraved image of the Centennial mark.

THE CENTENNIAL STAFF

The University president carries an ornate staff that was crafted in 2006 to commemorate the University’s Centennial. The Centennial Medallion set in brass tops the staff, which is almost six feet in height and made of solid wood.

The presidential flag, verge, and school/college batons were designed by John Mulgrew, Professor of Fine Arts.

The Centennial staff and school/college banners were designed by David Grupper.

The Centennial staff was crafted by Michael Fayed, Master Wood Turner.
